

This sandbox takes a whitelist and namespace approach. The input file, required to be called 'a', is opened, scanned for characters not in the whitelist. The file is then exec'ed with a namespace containing only "str". After the code is run, a variable within the code, required to be called 'a', is printed out.